Target version:
ruby -v:		Backport: 2.0.0: DONTNEED, 2.1: DONTNEED, 2.2: DONTNEED, 2.3: DONTNEED
Description A segmentation bug occurred when running rspec tests on an app. This first appeared using ruby 2.3.0p0 revision 53290, and appeared similar to bugs reported in issues https://bugs.ruby-lang.org/issues/12000 and https://bugs.ruby-lang.org/issues/11928. 11928 implies that the bug should have been fixed at revision 53524, so I have updated ruby to 2.3.0p7 revision 53608 and am still getting segmentation faults. The error output starts with: <pre>/Users/foo/.rvm/gems/ruby-2.3-head@global/gems/did_you_mean-1.0.0/lib/did_you_mean/spell_checkers/name_error_checkers/variable_name_checker.rb:10: [BUG] Segmentation fault at 0x00000000000011 ruby 2.3.0p7 (2016-01-21 revision 53608) [x86_64-darwin14]</pre> and ends: <pre>[NOTE] You may have encountered a bug in the Ruby interpreter or extension libraries. I also got a similar bug with Ruby 2.3.0p7 revision 53608. As the poster writes, this version is later than revision 53524, in which a similar (alleged duplicate) bug has been supposed to be fixed. But the bug retains, and the present issue is closed. Am I missing something? Is there a version available that does not have such bug?

#4 - 02/29/2016 04:09 AM - nobu (Nobuyoshi Nakada)

r53524 is the revision in the trunk, not 2.3.
And #11928's backport status to 2.3 is still REQUIRED.
