2. Entry to Croatia

If you are a displaced person from Ukraine and you are seeking temporary protection, you can enter the Republic of Croatia through any border crossing. Upon arrival at the Croatian border, you should declare that you are displaced from Ukraine. If you do not have any personal document with a photograph when entering the Republic of Croatia, biometric data (including fingerprints of all 10 fingers and a facial image) will be taken. Children younger than 12 years old make an exception. In their case, only a photograph will be taken and stored in the Information system. If you accompany minor children, you should present the necessary documents proving your relationship with the child. If you are under 18 years old and travel on your own, the social services will join the border control procedure. For minors over 12 years old who are unaccompanied, all 10 fingerprints and a facial images will be taken (regardless of whether they have a document to prove their identity).

Where can you register for temporary protection in Croatia

To register for temporary protection, you need to submit a form to the police administration or police station competent for your address of residence. The temporary protection registration form in Ukrainian is available here. You can also register online at <https://croatia4ukraine.mup.hr/Pages/Zahtjev>.

Shortly after the approval of your registration, you will be issued a card of 'foreigner under temporary protection' (residence permit). If you are in a Collective Residence for Displaced Persons, you do not need to go to a police administration or police station. You can register at the Collective Residence by contacting the Interior Ministry officer on duty or a police officer.

For more information see <https://hrvatskazaukrajinu.gov.hr/informacije/status-privremene-zastite/152>.

What documents do you need to register?

To receive the card of 'foreigner under temporary protection', you need to provide two colour photographs measuring 3 x 3.5 cm.

To register (or deregister) as a foreigner residing in Croatia under temporary protection you will need to submit to the police station or precinct of your place of residence the document called 'Form 11'.

What is the procedure to access temporary protection in Croatia?

You can request for temporary protection to the competent police administration or police station competent for your place of residence (form in Ukrainian available here) or you can submit your request online at <https://croatia4ukraine.mup.hr/Pages/Zahtjev>.

The form includes detailed instructions on how to fill it in and which types of documentation you can attach. You are advised to gather the documentation before starting to fill in the form. Each person must submit their own application (including minor children; i.e. parents /legal representatives for minor children; legal guardian for unaccompanied children). If one parent remained in Ukraine, the signature of only one parent is sufficient.

Which documents do you receive as a beneficiary of temporary protection?

You will receive a card of 'foreigner under temporary protection' (residence permit).

This card is a bilingual document (in Croatian and English) and is considered a residence permit in the Republic of Croatia. It confirms your status as a foreigner under temporary protection.

Duration of the temporary protection

Temporary protection status is valid at least until 4 March 2023. Depending on the situation in Ukraine, it can be extended for 6 months or 1 year. Temporary protection can then be further extended for no more than 1 year on the basis of a decision of the Council of the European Union. In any case, temporary protection can last maximum for 3 years.

Your rights as a beneficiary of temporary protection in Croatia

Under temporary protection, you have the following rights.

- ◆ Right of residence for the duration of temporary protection.
- ◆ A card of 'foreigner under temporary protection' that is considered a residence permit. When temporary protection ends, you must return the card to the police administration/police station that issued it.
- ◆ Right to work without a residence and work permit or a registration of work.
- ◆ Right to health care, including emergency medical assistance and appropriate medical and other assistance for vulnerable groups. To receive healthcare, you should present your card of 'foreigner under temporary protection'.
- ◆ Appropriate accommodation if you do not have the financial resources to provide for it on your own.
- ◆ Primary and secondary education at the same terms as Croatian citizens.
- ◆ Family reunification.

Accommodation

If you have not arranged for your own accommodation in Croatia, you will be referred to official shelter centres and collective accommodation centres. Accommodation in shelter centres is temporary, usually up to 48 hours. After that, you will be offered longer-term housing.

At the shelter centres, you will be received by members of the Civil Defence, officers of the police administration/police station and the Croatian Red Cross. The Croatian Red Cross will use the form that you will have completed to register your data. Once you are registered, you can receive psychosocial assistance, humanitarian assistance and make use of the Search Services (for family tracing).

If you have secured accommodation in Croatia on your own, you can go there autonomously.

If you have been separated from your family, contact the Croatian Red Cross at the Reception Centre, where the Search Service is located. A list with all representations of the Red Cross across Croatia can be found at <https://www.hck.hr/adresar/50>.

Legal entities or individuals providing accommodation to Ukrainian displaced persons can register a short-term stay through the eVisitor application.

‘Collective accommodation for displaced persons’ is a more permanent form of accommodation that provides you with housing, food and internet access. In these facilities, you can contact the hotel staff to ask any questions related to your accommodation and stay. The Civil Protection and the Croatian Red Cross will visit every day to coordinate your requests and needs.

If you are living with relatives, friends, etc. or if you own real estate in Croatia, you can stay there and enjoy the rights that belong to you under temporary protection.

After the vaccine application is received, you will receive an email, text message or a phone call (depending on the option you chose in the application) with the time and place of vaccination.

Vaccination is administered in general practitioners' offices (especially for patients with a chronic illness), in county institutes of public health and at mass vaccination sites.

Vaccination for children is on voluntary basis and allowed for children above 5 years of age.

Mandatory veterinarian check-up for pets

Due to the exceptional circumstances caused by the war in Ukraine, the Ministry of Agriculture has decided to allow the non-commercial movement of pets accompanied by their owners to the territory of the Republic of Croatia.

If you have brought a pet with you, you will need to inform the authorities. A veterinary inspector will visit you and determine the steps to be taken (e.g. chipping, vaccination against rabies and mandatory registration). The veterinarian will provide you with all the necessary information regarding this procedure. The service is free of charge for owners who move with their pets from Ukraine. Prior to the arrival of the veterinary inspector, please limit your pet's contact with other animals and persons.

For more information see <https://hrvatskazaukrajinu.gov.hr/informacije/prvi-prihvat/151>.

Access to education

Children under temporary protection have the right to start or continue primary and secondary education in Croatia at the same terms as Croatian citizens.

Teachers will talk to you to determine in which class the child should be enrolled. The school will provide textbooks and organise preparatory courses in Croatian. If you have documents concerning the child's education history, bring them with you.

For a list of primary schools in Croatia, see <http://mzos.hr/dbApp/pregled.aspx?appName=OS>.

To enrol a child in secondary school (after 8th grade), apply directly at the desired secondary school. Teachers will talk to you to determine in which class the child should be enrolled and which program is best for them. The school organises preparatory courses in Croatian. If you have documents concerning the child's education history, bring them with you.

For a list of secondary schools in Croatia, see <http://mzos.hr/dbApp/pregled.aspx?appName=SS>.

University

Ukrainian nationals who enjoy temporary protection status can pursue higher education in Croatia while temporary protection is active. Each faculty is responsible for the decisions on enrolment, taking into account the availability of vacancies and other criteria.

In the absence of temporary protection, third-country nationals who wish to study in Croatia should regulate your position through the institute of temporary residence for study purposes (in accordance with the Aliens Act - Official Gazette 133/20).

4. International protection

You can apply for international protection (asylum or subsidiary protection) even if you enjoy temporary protection. You should know that the examination of applications for international protection is more complex, involves more procedural steps and takes more time than temporary protection.

Receiving temporary protection does not mean that you will be automatically granted international protection. The latter depends on the individual and personal situation of each individual.

Applications for international protection can be submitted directly, by giving a statement for the record in the Reception Centre for Applicants for International Protection in Zagreb or Kutina. In exceptional cases, applicants for international protection can also submit their applications outside the Reception Centre, within the appropriate time limits and depending on their personal situation (e.g. in a hospital).

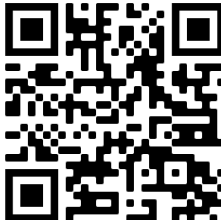

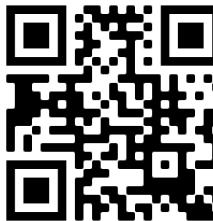

Third-country nationals or stateless persons who have entered the Republic of Croatia illegally, arriving directly from the territory where they suffered persecution within the meaning of the 1951 Refugee Convention and where there is a real risk that they might be exposed to serious harm upon returning to their country of origin, will not be punished for illegal entry or stay if they declare their intention to apply for international protection without any delay, and if they show valid reasons for their illegal entry or stay.

In the first-instance procedure, the application for international protection is decided by the Ministry of the Interior. It is possible to appeal against the decision of the Ministry of the Interior before the competent administrative court.

For more information on international protection, visit <https://gov.hr/en/applicants-for-international-protection/1202>.
