

Mr. Xie Hui serves as Deputy Director-General of the Global Sustainable Transport Innovation and Knowledge Center, an affiliate of China's Ministry of Transport. His core responsibilities include advancing the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Global Development Initiative within the transport sector—key efforts delivered through organizing the Global Sustainable Transport Forum, coordinating the research and implementation of sustainable transport, and facilitating knowledge sharing and capacity building initiatives.

With 30 years of professional experience in maritime transportation within the public sector, Mr. Xie brings profound expertise in global transport governance. He currently holds the position of Chair of the Sub-Committee on Implementation of IMO Instruments (III) at the International Maritime Organization (IMO), where he plays a pivotal role in driving the effective application of international maritime standards worldwide.
