WOMEN RISE FOR ALL EVENT

Convened by the United Nations

Deputy Secretary-General Amina J. Mohammed

THANK YOU FOR JOINING THE WOMEN RISE FOR ALL EVENT

Convened by the United Nations Deputy Secretary-General Amina J. Mohammed, this event will bring together influential women leaders from around the globe to share how their leadership is shaping the COVID-19 response and what it will take to build back better. Global, Local and Intergenerational—Women Rise for All will take on critical issues facing our world.

The Women Rise for All Event is supported by the United Nations Office for Partnerships (UNOP), a global gateway to co-create opportunities to reach the Sustainable Development Goals.

Virtual Meeting Information

The event will begin at 8:00 a.m. (New York, EDT) on Tuesday, 14 July 2020 and is expected to end at 10:40 a.m.

Meeting Access

Registered participants will be able to join the event. Everyone who has registered will receive a link and access details prior to the event.

Everyone is invited to register at: <https://womenriseforall.eventfinity.co/register>

Interactions with the speakers

There will be a “Send your questions” box at the event website, located on the lower bottom of the screen. You are invited to share your questions during the event and the speakers can read through the questions and respond.

CONCEPT NOTE

WOMEN RISE FOR ALL

Convened by the United Nations Deputy Secretary-General
Amina J. Mohammed

14 JULY 2020 AT 8.00 – 10.40 AM EDT

We are women leaders rising in solidarity to save lives and protect livelihoods. We call for all leaders to meet the human crisis of COVID-19.

Women are on the frontlines of the COVID-19 response and recovery. Saving lives as first responders. Finding solutions as innovators. Facing the pandemic as political leaders. Countries with women leaders have had fewer deaths and are on track to a faster economic recovery.

The Women Rise for All Event brings together women from all sectors in recognition of frontline leadership that is winning against COVID-19 and is inspiring the action required to come out of the pandemic stronger as part of Decade of Action to reach the Sustainable Development Goals.

A new and interactive event convened by the United Nations Deputy Secretary-General gathers influential women leaders from around the world to look at how their leadership is shaping the COVID-19 response and what it will take to build back better. From local to global—Women Rise for All will take on critical issues facing our world.

Discussions will also focus on how these dialogues can inform and influence the transformation of our response and can support inclusion and sustainability beyond the pandemic and into the Decade of Action to reach the Sustainable Development Goals.

Be inspired to lead.

RUN OF SHOW

COVID-19 has been a test of leadership. Let's talk about what we expect from leaders today. One thing we know, there's no going back to the status quo.

As Christine Lagarde said, "The worst is behind us and the hardest is still to come."

OPENING SESSION

A Global and Local Perspective for All

How women leaders globally and locally are winning against #COVID on the health and socio-economic fronts.

The complexity of COVID-19 requires multi-dimensional solutions in an interconnected world. What has made these leaders successful and what are their plans for building back stronger?
